

Some Perak Pedigrees.

BY R. O. WINSTEDT.

These pedigrees are interesting because comparison of sufficient genealogies of the royal and noble families of a country enables one to fix approximately the main dates of its history; and this is necessary in dealing with Malay history, whose records as a rule entirely lack chronological data.

The genealogies following are copied from MS. by that enthusiastic genealogist, Raja Haji Yahya, late mufti of Perak.

Tun (or Tan) Saban from whom these great house of the Sri Adika Raja (Wilkinson's "History I," pp. 80-81, in "Papers on Malay Subjects") and the lesser house of the Sri Amar 'diraja (id. p. 86) are descended, is the earliest name in the history of Perak (id., pp. 71-73, J. R. A. S., S. B., and Winstedt's "Malay Literature, II," pp. 40-42 or J. R. A. S., Vol. XIII, Part IV, pp. 501-507); from comparative study of the Perak genealogies one might doubt if he flourished earlier than the end of the seventeenth century, but the more reliable genealogy of the Perak Sayids would lead one to ascribe the founding of the Perak dynasty to the beginning of that century.

The Family of the Penglima Kinta.

Family of the Megats who held the offices of Bendahara till 1770 A.D.

Megat Terawis.
(fl. ? 1650 A.D.)

NOTE. Circa 1760 A.D. there was a Megat Pondia, the last of the family to be a Bendahara: he bore the title Paduka Sri Maharaja. He was a contemporary of Megat Pintal whom he succeeded in office. The Megat tree is doubtful in several places.

NOTE.

The Sri Nara 'diraja family claim two holders of the office of Orang Kaya Běsar, Perak before the Orang Kaya Běsar, Kuala Kėnas its third holder. The first was a son of Sri Nara 'diraja Samah and a grandson of S. N. 'd. Pandak: the second was Orang Kaya Běsar Pendek, son of a Tan Dewi.
